A Word to the Wise!
HIGHLY IMPORTANT TO FARMERS
Renner's Chemical Fertilizer!
THE importance of a quick, active and durable Fertilizer, adapted to the soil of our county, is acknowledged by all Farmers. Having satisfied myself, after long study and careful experiment, that F. C. RENNER'S
Chemical Fertilizer
surpasses all others in adaptedness to all kinds of soil, I have purchased the right for Adams county, and am prepared to fill orders for it promptly and on reasonable terms. It is no humbug, but HAS BEEN SUCCESSFULLY TRIED
by a number of our Farmers, and is admitted by all who have it to be the best in the market, and the cheapest. I am prepared to furnish this Fertilizer in any quantity, and will deliver
In any town or village in the County, when ordered in not less quantity than a TON. I manufacture it for sale at $50 per ton without bags, or $55 in bags. This fertilizer is composed of the best fertilizing chemicals that can be had. I use no oil of vitriol; it does not contain any ammonia, therefore I do not use it. Neither do I use lime nor ashes.
THE OBJECT OF THE CHEMICAL FERTILIZER is to introduce a fertilizer that will last for a series of crops—not only for one. It contains sufficient animal matter to mature the grain and make it ripen early, while the ammonia forces the growth. I expect to manufacture a large supply this winter for the spring crops, and therefore invite farmers and the public generally to give it a trial on all kinds of Grains and Vegetables.
CAUTION.—I hereby give notice that Farm Rights hereafter sold unless signed by me, are infringements on my Right, and will be prosecuted and dealt with according to law, from which there is no appeal.

THE TERRIBLE DRINK.

Oh, the drink, the terrible drink,
Making each city and town a sink
Of misery dire, and fearful to tell
Of the numberless victims sent to hell.
Swearing,
Killing,
Crimes no lack,
The terrible drink makes night so black;
The curse of youth and decrepid age,
Adding to thirst instead of assuage;
Continual drink, the drunkard's crave,
Till it drags him down to an early grave.
Oh, the drink, the horrible drink!
See the child from its father shrink
As he staggers home from his night's debauch,
His soul on fire from the demon's torch.
Blindly,
Wildly,
Stumbling along,
Crazed with drink, intent on wrong;
And even the dogs, with a leap and a bound,
Growl at the man as he gropes around.
This is the picture, deny it who can,
Of the downward steps of a fallen man.
Once he was free from the vice, but he fell—
Fell, like the angels, from heaven to hell—
Fell, to be mocked at, scoffed at, and beat,
Mingling with filth in the horrible street.
Pleading,
Cursing,
Dreading the worst,
Drinking still deeper, yet greater his thirst,
Till he sickens and falls, degraded and low.
And death is preferred to this abyss of woe!
Merciful God! in thy goodness save
Thine own image from a drunkard's grave.

DOBSONIAN CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

"'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house,
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse,
And mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap."

This much of the old Christmas story was extremely true of the Dobsons at the particular time I am going to tell you about, for it was the night before Christmas, having just struck eleven on the parlor mantlepiece by the clock that made so much noise about all its performances. You could hear them distinctly in the room overhead—and Mr. and Mrs. Dobson wore respectfully kerchief and cap—presuming the words to designate the masculine and feminine of the same noun—Mrs. Dobson's with a high crown, and nicely fluted, tied beneath her chin; Mr. Dobson's of many colored silks curiously netted together, with a lengthy tassel depending on one side.

I have omitted some of the intermediate lines of the poem, because there were no little Dobsons nestled snug in their beds, while visions of sugar plums danced in their heads, and, consequently, no stockings were hung "by the chimney with care, in hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there."—They had had their little talk after the light had been put out, and Mr. Dobson taken the flying leap necessary to land him in the heap of feathers that, with an old-fashioned love of comfort, they patronized instead of hair mattresses; they had said good night and "turned over," in fact, had settled themselves for a long winter's nap, when—yes, the clatter came, but not the minature sleigh and reindeer—it was a loud rap on the front door. Of course the good people were considerably startled. To them, in their quiet way of life, any one out at eleven and coming to their house for a call was a thing incredible, and not to be entertained for a moment.

"What's that?" said Mr. Dobson.

"Speak softly, dear," whispered the lady.

"They don't knock softly," he answered. "I suppose I must go down and see what it is. Ugh!"

This exclamation was not wholly uncalled for, as, be it understood, it was a very cold night, and there was no fire in the room.

"My love, I positively declare you shall not go!" cried his wife. "It isn't safe—and in your condition, too! Think of the pains in your knees, the neuralgia in your left shoulder—besides, it may be thieves."

Now, Mrs. Dobson, having for many years had sole control of her own life and limbs, was very apt to think, since they shared their flesh and limbs in common, she had, and of right should have, equal control over the life and limbs of Mr. Dobson, who generally permitted such control unless the cause seemed urgent. In this instance the cause so seemed, and he showed a celerity in his movements in leaving his resting-place that was quite astonishing in a man of his years, for he thought if the thing had to be done, it was one of those that had better be done at once, since jumping out of bed on a cold winter's night presents more horrors to the imagination the longer the idea is dwelt upon, as some among my readers may certify if they will recall the remembrance of a refractory window-shutter and their sensations as they lay and hoped (need I say how vainly?) it would fasten itself either backward or forward, and they remain undisturbed. Mr. Dobson knew very well thieves would not make so noisy an entrance, and felt no fears on that score, but lumbago presented terrors he dreaded to face—or back. "At any rate, look out of the window, Ebenezer, and see who it looks like."

So Ebenezer threw up the sash. The moon being in shadow naught to his wondering eyes appeared. He summoned the individual to speak by calls of "Who's there?" and "What do you want?" but apparently nobody wanted anything, or somebody wanted nothing, or most probably nobody was there. This was eminently unsatisfactory. Then Mr. Dobson saw clearly it was a case admitting of no delay, and declared he must "put something on" and go down. Poor Mrs. Dobson's terror revived, she seemed singularly averse to his leaving her, and finally asserted it must be a baby that some one was going to leave at their door, "and the idea, Ebenezer, of our taking a baby in this time of night,—or any other time for the matter of that. Get you in bed again, husband, and don't mind 'em."

Husband, however, stoutly averred it was quite impossible to think of leaving a poor little baby out there all night—it would freeze before morning; and if it really was a baby, he would take it to the poor master in the morning; they need not keep so undesirable a Christmas gift. It almost seemed that Mr. Dobson was unwarrantably anxious to go down. Then it was that his wife seeing it must be, asserted if some one must go down, she'd be that some one, for it really could not be thought of that he should, when he had a plaster on his back at that very moment.

"See! I'll just throw this wrapper around me, slip my feet in your shoes, run down and peep out; you, meanwhile, standing on the stairway keeping watch."

In a trice she was ready, and started off before Mr. Dobson had time to enter a protest; and forasmuch as she had on his shoes, there were insuperable objections to his crossing the lower entry, therefore, he was content with stationing himself half way down the stairs, and watching his spouse with great admiration for her self-immolation and suddenly-acquired courage. But ah! poor Mrs. Dobson was a heroine in undress. Little did he guess of the flutterings of that heart as she crossed the hall and laid her hand on the door-knob. However, she cast a glance back at her liege lord, so encouragingly near, bravely drew the bolt, and looked forth.

"I hope she won't see it," he mutters.

At first she does not; but at length she exclaims: "Yes, here is a basket! I verily believe it is a baby after all!" She stoops down, examines the contents cautiously, and then retreats inside and locks the door.

"It is a baby, I'm afraid, for I felt straw and cotton, as true as I live. And now, Mr. Dobson, what would you do?"

He replied cooly: "Come back to bed by all means; it's quite cold," and he looked really relieved.

"But the baby—you said it would freeze."

"I've thought better of that. Most likely it is a baby, but if so, somebody is waiting outside, and they'll know soon enough we haven't taken it in, and then they wont leave it there." After a moment's pause, with an animated countenance, he continued:

"It strikes me, Leline, this is probably some confounded joke of the neighbors. Don't you see? Sending a baby to you and me. Likely enough it's a hoax; and isn't a real baby at all, and they are on the watch to laugh at us, if we don't show them we can see through a thicker stone-wall than that, any day."

This was quite convincing to Mrs. Dobson, and she willingly reascended the stair way, remarking only she thought it a very poor joke. First in, she was soon tucked down most comfortably. "Ebenezer, why don't you get in and put out the light, and don't stand shaking there?"

"I think—perhaps—my dear, I'll go down and get warmed by the dining-room fire. I have got thoroughly chilled; and I noticed quite a warm light shone out in the hall"

"Nonsense!"

"Well, well, never mind, then!" and out went the light, and in went the submissive Dobson, but with strenuous efforts he tried to keep his eyes open, for, thought he, "when she gets asleep I'll just run down and take the basket in. There's no use in its being left out all night. I don't think it is quite safe."

While he with great exertions tried to banish sleep, she vainly sought to yield herself to its embraces; and so it happened that when at length she found oblivion, his exhausted nature could endure no more, and Morpheus' fingers were on his closed eyelids—not to be removed till daylight dawned. His first thought was of that basket, and his first act to look at Mrs. Dobson. Rising with the utmost caution, he stepped on tip toe out of the room, leaving the door ajar. The pale glimmer of early dawn shed a mysterious gray light over everything, just sufficient to guide his steps. He reached the bottom of the stairway in safety, and commenced crossing the hall, still watching every footstep with the most anxious solicitude, that no loose board or unwary stumble rouse the sleeping beauty overhead. But suddenly he pauses. Through the half opened door of the dining room, in the dim light, he clearly distinguishes the figure of a man.

At first he thinks he has been seen, and his limbs tremble beneath him, but in a moment becomes aware that the man's back is toward him; and, with great presence of mind, he turns quitely around and retraces his steps with equal care and nicety. The Fates are propitious; the wife of his bosom lies wrapped in unconscious slumbers still. The heroic Dobson lays his hand with trembling excitement upon his pistol on the mantle-piece and then bravely marches back to the encounter. Unluckily, in his nervous haste, he trips at the first step, but recovers his balance, and no one seems to have heard the noise, for when he reaches the doorway again he sees the figure still in the same position. He raises the pistol, fires, and at the same moment hears the voice of Mrs. Dobson calling: "Ebenezer, what are you about?"

Awakened by the noise he made in his second exit, she had rushed out to see where he was going, and arrives just in time to behold him strike an attitude, and send a ball through the unconscious robber.—Even in moments of intense excitement, habit will assert it control, and, before looking to see the effect of his fire, Mr. Dobson turns his horror-stricken countenance toward the surprised face of his wife.

"I'm afraid I've killed him—he doesn't move!" said he, in an awed tone of voice.

With a woman's quickness Mrs. Dobson understands the situation at a glance, and replies, while at the same moment her face expresses pity, amusement, and regret—pity for Mr. Dobson's evidently terrified depression of spirit, amusement at his mistake, and regret at the consequences. "Why, Dobby"—she always called him "Dobby" when she wished to administer comfort, and testify her sympathetic affection—"why, Dobby, you are shooting at your Christmas presents; and I've no doubt but that you have put a hole through the pretty dressing gown—silk lining and, all maybe."

By this time she had descended to his side; and together they walk into the room, which is not yet entirely divested of its horrors to Mr. Dobson's disturbed vision; it is not till his wife has thrown back the blinds, and let in a little more of the Christmas daylight that he sees it is no worse than she says. There stands the fire-screen with the cashmere dressing-gown thrown around it; a smoking cap perched on the top, and a beautiful pair of embroidered slippers on the floor in front of it. "There, Dobby; these are my Christmas gifts to you, and may you take comfort in them, for I've no doubt I can mend the holes nicely."

This restores him to his senses; and he returns his wife's embrace a hundred fold. Thus standing admiring the bright colors, and talking of the promised comfort of these things, it is some minutes before Mrs. Dobson recollects to ask what brought him down at such an unwarrantably early hour, shooting at the presents Santa Clause brings him, instead of waiting till the proper time to see them, when no such misfortune could have happened.

"Why, my dear, that reminds me I came to see after that basket and baby, you know. Just open the door and see if it's there." Hereupon, Mr. Dobson chuckled most facetiously, as if there was a mighty good joke somewhere around.

Curiosity predominating over all fears of a hoax, and the daylight rendering the opening of the door no longer terrible, and with now no secret to conceal from her husband, she looks forth, and, sure enough, there stands the basket still. It appears to be very heavy; but nevertheless the usually gallant Dobson offers her no assistance as she carries it in. Cautiously she pulls aside the paper and peeps in, then a sudden beam of intelligence and delight afloots over her countenance, and with a rush she has her arms around her Ebenezer's neck and is thanking him with all a woman's vehemence. She has him at an advantage as far as his comfort is concerned; for he had unwisely seated himself to enjoy his laugh in turn, but with so tight a clasp around his throat he can only return gasps for the affectionate utterances of his wife.

"You dear good old fellow! Just what I wanted! But to think of leaving them out there all night!"

At length he finds a chance to say: "Why you see, deary, you wouldn't let me take that baby in while you were awake, and you were so confoundedly long getting asleep. I hadn't a chance till morning."

Then they fall to examining their respective gifts again. Mrs. Dobson setting the pretty china tea-set all out on the table, and wiping each piece with affectionate care, while Mr. Dobson is actually trying on all the articles given him, and pronouncing each and every one an exact fit. At length, with a pang of remorse, he remembers the damage he had unwittingly done; but on searching no hole can be seen, and finally they find the ball safely lodged in the fire-place.

Thus it was that Mr. and Mrs. Dobson exchanged their gifts. "A Merry Christmas to all, and to all a Good-night?"

THE DEACON AND THE WASPS.—A worthy deacon in a town of Maine was remarkable for the facility with which he quoted Scripture on all occasions. The Divine word was ever on his tongue and all trivial as well as important occurrences of life furnished occasions for quoting the language of the Bible. What was better, however, the exemplary man always made his quotations the standard of action.

One hot day he was engaged in mowing with his hired man, who was leading off, the deacon following in his swath, conning his apt quotations, when the man suddenly sprang from his place, leaving the swath just in time to escape from a wasp's nest.

"What is the matter?" hurriedly inquired the deacon.

"Wasps," was the laconic reply.

"Pooh!" said the deacon, "the wicked flee when no man pursueth, but the righteous are bold as a lion;" and taking the workman's swath, he moved but a step when a swarm of brisk insects settled about his ears, and he was forced to retreat, with many a painful sting, and in great discomfiture.

"Ah!" shouted the other, with a chuckle, "the prudent man forseeth the evil and hideth himself, but the simple pass on and are punished."

The good deacon had found his equal in making applications of the sacred writings, and thereafter was not known to quote Scripture in a mowing field.

LAWYER TAPPAN'S DOG.—A certain butcher of Steubenville (call him Mr. B.) had been much annoyed by a large dog which had several times stolen meat from his stall. Going to lawyer Tappan, he presented his case thus;

"Mr. Tappan, I have had my beef stolen at various times by a dog in the town. What shall I do?"

"Sue the owner of the dog and recover the price of the beef," was the answer.

"Mr. Tappan, it was your dog," said Mr. B., exultingly."

"Ah! it was—well, what is the value of the beef?"

"Three dollars," replied the butcher.

"Very well," said Mr. Tappen, and paid the money.

With a smilling countenance the butcher was closing the office door, when he was startled by:

"Hold on, Mr. B., I charge you five dollars for consultation."

THEATRICAL ANECDOTE.—There was one occasion, when Mr. Forrest received from one of the supernumeraries of a theatre an answer which seemed to satisfy him. It was the man's duty to say simply, "The enemy is upon us," which he uttered at rehearsal in a poor whining way.

"Can't you say it better than that?" shouted Forrest "Repeat it as I do," and he gave the words with all the force and richness of his magnificent voice.

"If I could say it like that," replied the man, "I wouldn't be working for three dollars a week."

"Is that all you get?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, say it as you please."

THE annual value of the wool manufactures of the United States, and of those manufactures in which wool is a component part, is said to be not less than $175,000,000. Of these goods more than four-fifths are made from American wools. The coarse carpet-wools, which are not grown here at all, the worsted combing-wools, and the fine clothing wools, which are grown by us only in limited quantities, go to make up the rest. The annual consumption of wollen goods in the United States is estimated to equal $240,000,000. In 1868 more than fifteen million dollars were spent by us for imported dress goods; while for imported cassimeres we paid out nearly seven million dollars.

THE PHOTOGRAPH GREENBACK SWINDLE.—The N. Y. Tribune of Thursday states that District Attorney Pierrepont, in endeavoring to break up the photograph greenback swindling firms, who have flooded the country with circulars announcing that they would send, in the proportion of about $100 to $10, photographed greenbacks so well executed as to be easily passed, discovered that these parties were acting under permits from Mr. M'Culloch, the late Secretary of the Treasury. Thousands of people are being defrauded by this dodge, and Mr. Pierrepont has written to Secretary Boutwell asking that these permits be revoked, which it is likely will be done.

HOT potatoes are an entirely new defence against burglars; but they were recently used with excellent effect in Madison, Ohio. A young woman was left in charge of a house, the family having gone to church.—The rascal put in an appearance and demanded the pocket-book of pater familias. The noble young lady immediately opened upon the thief a battery of the above-mentioned vegetable in a smoking-hot condition. The supply of potatoes being exhausted, the courageous damsel "clinched" the knave most unaffectionately; and by this time he had concluded to leave, which he did in a hurried and highly bewildered condition.

FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

OUR GRANDFATHER'S RESCUE.

More than a century ago, our grandfather was in his cradle, "the brightest little fellow in all New England," as Captain Joseph, his father, said, when he returned from a prosperous sea voyage, and found him there.

Captain Joseph had been to the coast of Africa; not to steal the colored man; his was a more harmless traffic; he bought mahogany, gold dust, and other things.—But, more important for my story, he brought home with him, as a present to his little girls and their baby brother, an African monkey.

Jacko was larger, broader, stronger, even uglier to look upon than his young relations are,—his forty second cousins, who wear the tartan plaid, dance in our streets to street music, fire pistols, threw up their caps, catch pennies, and do everything but talk. Jacko looked out, from those deep-set eyes, below the narrow forehead, with even a more human look than the street monkey. At times, too, there was a vicious, cunning leer upon his face, that did not please our great-grandmother; even though he was ever so ready to rock the baby, she feared that he would prove but a treacherous nurse, wishing him, many times, back among the jungles of Africa.

Captain Joseph kissed, sailor-fashion, his wife's pretty cheek, saying: "Ay, sweetheart! Jacko is unfortunate; he is not good-looking enough to please the ladies.—He has not the pretty ways of a more gentlemanly monkey, therefore neither you nor Dinah can abide him." And Dinah, from amid the fragrant meal she was preparing for the johnny-cake, showed her white teeth, and said she, "believed Jacko was a toper, and as often drunk as Billy the boatswain was."

Our grandmother, too, had some grave suspicions. She detected the fragrance of her choicest Jamaica, whenever her keys were left in the store-room door; and the contents of the captain's punch bowl sank sometimes as mysteriously as water does in wells before the earthquake shock. But Jacko was a sly fellow, and the captain had a liking for him, treating every such report as feminine slander on account of Jacko's ugly looks. The sailors had taught Jacko many a trick, on that rough homeward voyage,—we expect he knew the sound of the fiddle as well as Jack the tar, but our grandmother did not approve of dancing, and never invited Jacko to the minuet.

And he did love beer. Ah! there was Jacko's ruin,—another trait, too, whereby he touched humanity. Nobody, in that day, objected to the beer barrel,—it was before the temperance movement, and Captain Joseph kept his well tapped, down in his comfortable cellar. Jacko knew it was there. Down stairs he ran, one day, all on the sly, and drank himself so drunk he forgot to turn the tap again, and all the contents of the barrel ran out upon the cellar floor. Jacko, surly and dumb, went and hid himself from the whipping; but he could not escape the master's vigilance.—Captain Joseph was not one to spare the rod upon his child, still less upon his monkey.

Very dark-looking for days afterwards was Jacko, hiding about and biding his time. One day the baby was missing, and Captain Joseph saw a sight that made his stout nerves quiver as never they had done before the blast or billow. He saw Jacko on the house top with his son, bounding over the slippery roof, and coming, as he met the Captain's eye, defiantly, with that dear baby, down to the very eaves.

Our young readers may have heard of William Tell, who parted the apple on his son's head with an arrow. Captain Joseph did something quite as brave. Kind neighbors came to the rescue, with ladders and feather beds. Captain Joseph took his gun crept up to the scuttle, and then, while Jacko dangled the baby over the eaves, he shot the monkey dead. The baby dropped into the pile of feather beds unhurt,—our grandfather was saved. He had not been as frightened in that dance of death upon his father's roof as the agonized hearts who watched him had been. To the baby it had been a wild sort of play with Jacko.

This baby, as we have said, grew to be an old man, and lived to see his children's children to the fourth generation. The quaint one-story-and-a-half house,—gable-end to the street,—still stands, as it stood then, in that old New England seaport.—The sea-fogs come in and cling to it lovingly, as they have done for more than a hundred years, preserving it from decay.—Births, and deaths, and marriages have occurred beneath its roof, but never again, as guest or playfellow, has gone in or out over that hospitable doorstep the monkey.

It is customary, we believe, to have a moral to the story. There should be one, we are sure, to this bit of history; and as such, our young readers may draw the conclusion that Jacko would probably have lived out all his days in peace, plenty and honor, if he had not been so sly a thief,—and so fond of the beer barrel.

THE OLD WOMAN.—Once it was 'Mother,' and it was "mother, I'm hungry." "Mother, put up my dinner," and the loving hands would spread the butter, and sew on the great patch, heart brimming with affection for the imperious little curly pate that made her so many steps and nearly distracted her with his boisterous mirth.

Now she is "the old woman," but she did not think it would ever come to that. She looked on through the future years and saw her boy to manhood grown; and he stood transfigured in the light of her own beautiful love. Never was there a more noble son than he—honored in the world, and the staff of her declining years.

Aye, he was her support even then, but she did not know it. She never realized that it was her little boy that gave her strength for daily toil—that his slender form was all that upheld her over the brink of despair. She only knew how she loved the child, and felt that amidst the mists of age his love would bear her gently through its infirmities to the dark hall leading to the life beyond.

But the son has forgotten the mother's ministrations now. Adrift from the moorings of home, he is cold, selfish, heartless, and "Mother" has no sacred meaning to the prodigal. She is, "the old woman," wrinkled, gray, lame and blind.

THERE is no question which has been asked so often and which remains so decidedly undecided as the question, "Will Lager beer intoxicate?" In the action, Pfaff Bros. vs. one of their customers, brought in Boston to recover the value of thirty-two casks of the fluid, the defense was that it was sold in violation of the statute of the Commonwealth prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors. The jury found for the plaintiffs, although the Court charged that they were not entitled to recover if the jury thought lager intoxicating. We suspect that the general drink called lager is various as to its strength and ingredients, and that a good deal depends not only on the quantity but the quality of the Teutonic tipple imbibed.

The Star & Sentinel.

Friday, Dec. 31, 1869.

Advertisers and others interested will bear in mind that the regular circulation of the "STAR AND SENTINEL" is much larger than that of any other paper published in the County, being read weekly by not less than 11,000 persons.

SETTLING UP!

We have on our books a large amount of unpaid Subscriptions, Advertising and Jobbing, and have commenced making out accounts, which will be forwarded to those indebted as rapidly as they can be prepared. The Cash system has been introduced in every thing requisite to a newspaper office. We have to pay Cash for every pound of paper, every pound of ink and type, and all the labor employed in the office. To meet our engagements, we are compelled to reduce our business to the Cash basis, as far as practicable. We have been sending the "STAR AND SENTINEL" to some subscribers for nearly three years, without realizing anything on their subscriptions—to others for a less period. With the heavy outlay incident to the management of the office, it is absolutely necessary that we realize promptly the amounts due us. We hope that all our friends will see the propriety and necessity of promptly meeting these bills as they are sent out.

We propose at an early date to revise our mailing list, and to STRIKE OFF all who manifest no disposition to pay the printer. With this fair notice, delinquent subscribers cannot complain if they find their papers stopped.

Our terms are $2.50 per annum, when not paid in advance. As we are anxious to close up our old accounts as promptly as possible, WE WILL ACCEPT $2 A YEAR FROM ALL WHO PAY UP PROMPTLY, on receipt of bills. Those who neglect to pay, and force us [illegible] expense of collecting [illegible] other me[illegible]

[illegible] our cor[illegible] of our patrons who promptly paid their subscriptions—also to those who have so generously aided in extending the already large circulation of the "STAR AND SENTINEL." During the last three months we have received quite a number of new subscribers, and can thus readily afford to drop the "dead-heads" without affecting our aggregate circulation.

DEATH OF HON. EDWIN M. STANTON.

Last week we announced the appointment of Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Ex-Secretary of War, as one of the Justices of the Supreme Court, to succeed Justice GRIER, resigned, and his prompt confirmation by the U. S. Senate. We have this week the painful duty of announcing his death, which took place on Friday last. In to-day's issue will be found the particulars of his death, which has produced a profound sensation throughout the country. His sudden decease, so soon after he had been nominated and confirmed as a Justice of the Supreme Court, recalls the death of ABRAHAM LINCOLN by an assassin's hand, just after the utter overthrow and collapse of the Slaveholders' Rebellion. Seldom has the frailty of life, the nothingness of triumph and exaltation, been more strikingly evinced than in the taking off of the Patriot President and that of the great War Minister on whose arm he leaned throughout the most trying period of our country's history. It was upon Mr. STANTON that ABRAHAM LINCOLN relied with the most absolute confidence; it was upon Mr. STANTON that during the first horror of the assassination the Government for a while seemed to rest; it was upon his firmness, his incorruptible honesty, that during the dark days of Mr. JOHNSON'S administration the hopes of the country seemed to depend. No wonder that such a man left enemies; it will be one of his chief titles to historic renown that among those enemies were all the enemies of his country.

It is too soon (says the N. Y. Tribune) to make a proper estimate of the character and services of Mr. STANTON. A zealous Democrat down to the hour when fire was opened on Fort Sumter, he thenceforth gave his heart, his brain, his energies, wholly to the cause of the Union. Undaunted by peril, unshaken by adversity, never quailing, nor wavering, nor doubting, hardly a general in the field or another statesman in the Cabinet or in Congress did so much as he to secure the triumph of the Nation, and none worked more incessantly or less grudgingly. Disbursing hundreds of millions per annum, no one ever suspected him of seeking gain for himself or his friends. Arresting many on suspicion (sometimes mistaken) of treasonable practices, none ever accused him of being actuated by private malice. Wielding almost dictatorial power, he used it only for the country's salvation, and welcomed the hour when he could resign it without shrinking from the discharge of an imperative duty. Austere in manner and sometime abrupt in speech, he was dreaded by military officers who desired an easy war ending in a half-and-half compromise; while no man was ever more generally or more intensely hated by the outright and manly or the skulking, dissembling partisans of the Rebellion.

EDWIN M. STANTON is dead, but his memory will long be cherished and his services gratefully remembered and honored. Thank God that he lived to see the Union triumph consolidated by the election of GRANT and COLFAX, and that no anxieties for the future of his country disturbed the last pulsations of his brave and honest heart.

THE order promulgated on Friday by the War Department assigning General TERRY to duty as Military Commander of Georgia, pending the reorganization of the Legislature of the State, remands it to the condition it occupied under the old Reconstruction acts, and is issued under authority derived from them. The Administration construes the recent act of Congress on the subject to be a virtual repeal of all laws passed since the first organization of the State Government after the war.

SENATOR PRATT, of Indiana, elected to the U. S. Senate within the past year, has already grown weary of Senatorial honors and sent his resignation to Gov. Baker.

THE COUNTY FINANCES.

Rumors have been current on our streets for some days that recent examinations of the County Finances show a heavy deficiency—we hear the debt put up as high as $60,000. We can hardly think it possible the deficiency reaches that figure; but whatever it be, the tax-payers of the county have a right to know it. There can be no possible apology for concealing the facts. There has been much complaint over the manner in which the Annual Statements of the County Finances are prepared for publication. Although the law requires this statement to be a detailed exhibit of the receipts and expenditures it has been so generalized and condensed as to defy the scrutiny of the sharpest accountant in cyphering out where and to whom the money goes, on any guess even at the real condition of the Treasury. One fact is certain—the new Board of County Commissioners have found it necessary to advance the rate of taxation to EIGHT MILLS, to meet the current demands on the Treasury.

Let us have light on this subject.—The Commissioners and County Auditors owe it to themselves and the tax-payers of the county, in their approaching settlement, thoroughly to sift the County Finances, and then present a frank exhibit of their condition and the detailed statement of receipts and expenditures required by law. In York, Cumberland, Franklin and adjoining counties we have these full exhibits every year. Why not in Adams? Concealments must breed suspicion.

THE political world is just now enjoying a sensation growing out of some ugly developments connected with WM. B. REED, of Philadelphia, BUCHANAN'S ex-Minister to China, ex-counsel to JEFFERSON DAVIS, and a leading light in the Democratic party. He has turned out a defaulter to the amount of $200,000, swindling his most intimate friends. His whereabouts are unknown and he is believed to have absconded. He resided in a palatial mansion on Chestnut Hill, the father of a numerous family, surrounded by every luxury and comfort which wealth would com[illegible] Notwithstanding hi[illegible] his integrity was [illegible] most intimate [illegible], however, that [illegible] systematically swindling [illegible] who trusted him most—two old aunts, who had confided to his care all their estate, being left penniless. It seems that the defalcations were known some months ago to a few intimate friends, but efforts were made to gloss them over. They were brought to light recently by the legal proceedings of a too confiding Englishman, by name of CHARLES POTTER, resident of London, who sent Mr. REED $33,265 to be invested in this country. Mr. REED used the money, but for several years left POTTER under the impression that it had been invested, regularly remitting the interest. POTTER demanded the principal, and it not being forthcoming, he obtained judgment some months ago, and last week, growing tired of REED'S promises to pay, issued execution and sold under the Sheriff's hammer all of REED'S furniture, library, &c. Various parties have waked up to find themselves badly swindled. Mr WELSH, the owner of Flora Temple, finds himself short $25.000 which REED got on a mortgage which turns out to be worthless, by reason of prior mortgages.

Mr. REED has moved, until recently, in the first circles of Philadelphia society. He has also figured quite prominently in the politics of the Keystone State. He was an adherent of the old Whig party, and as such he was elected to the Legislature of Pennsylvania, and later to the office of District Attorney of Philadelphia, which position he filled for a number of years. Not long after he deserted the Whig party and cast his fortunes with the Democracy. He became acquainted with JAMES BUCHANAN, whose interests he did all in his power to advance. During the BUCHANAN-FREMONT struggle REED worked night and day for the old public functionary. BUCHANAN was elected, and REED was rewarded for his services by being appointed Minister to China. He was recalled by LINCOLN, and became a red-hot Secessionist, denouncing the War, and supporting the South with all his powers. He was the Philadelphia correspondent of the London Times during the Rebellion, and no Rebel wrote more bitter denunciations of the Government. When the arch-traitor was arraigned for trial at Richmond, Mr. REED hastened to his side and volunteered his services as counsel, which were accepted. Ex-President BUCHANAN in his Will named Mr. REED as his biographer and literary executor, ordering all his papers, letters and correspondence bearing on his public life to be turned over to him, with a bequest of $5,000 to Mrs. REED. REED'S creditors are on the look out for him, but his whereabouts at present are unknown.

THE news which the telegraph brings from Paris is of the most important character in reference to the future politics of the government of the nation. The resignation of the present ministry has been tendered to Napoleon and accepted. He has called upon M. Emile Olliver to form a new Cabinet to be associated with himself. The Emperor's idea is that the Cabinet shall be homogenous, faithfully representing the Legislative majority, and resolved to apply in letter and spirit the Senatus consultum, which granted to the Senate and Chamber of Deputies many new privileges in the conduct of public affairs. M. Olliver is supposed to represent all of the Liberal element which adheres to the Empire, and the only question will be whether he can form a Government strong enough to resist the encroaching waves of Republicanism. But the Liberals have good cause to rejoice, as they do, that personal government is at an end.

DESPATCHES from San Francisco state that the heaviest earthquake ever experienced in Eastern California and Nevada occurred about six o'clock on Sunday evening. The shock was felt with more or less severity, at Sacramento, Marysville, Grass Valley, Nevada City, Iowa Hill, Stockton, Chicago, Truckee, and other neighboring towns. At Virginia City, Nevada, walls were thrown down, door-bells rung, and clocks stopped. The consternation was general. The vibrations were north and south, and lasted about ten seconds. At Reno the shock was preceded by a low rumbling, which lasted nearly two minutes, alarming the inhabitants. The express train bound west, was detained about an hour between Wadsworth and Reno by large rocks and earth thrown on the track by the earthquake.

THE death of Secretary Stanton leaves two vacancies on the Supreme Bench, General Hoar's nomination will be withdrawn, because of objection in the Senate.

THE public will be glad to learn that immediate measures will be taken to place Mr. Stanton's family in a comfortable pecuniary condition. Mr. Stanton died, leaving little or no means beyond the house the family live in, and three of the children are under fourteen years of age. A meeting of several of his intimate personal friends has been held at the residence of Hon. Samuel Hooper, at which it was determined to place the sum of $100,000 to the credit of Mr. Stanton's family by New Year's Day. President Grant on Monday subscribed $1,000 for this object. So long as the late Secretary lived he steadily refused to permit his friends to do any act of this kind, but they are now at liberty to do for his family what he was himself unable to do for them.

NEWS OF NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

CUMBERLAND.—Adam Titus, convicted of the murder of Henry Stehm, was hung on Wednesday of last week at Carlisle. The scaffold had three feet fall for the body, and the execution was sudden. Titus twitched and swung around a number of times, but death from strangling occured in about fifteen minutes. The body was cut down and given to the Catholics for burial. Just before the cap was drawn over his head Titus made the following address from the scaffold: My Friends—I desire to say a few words to you before I die. I have always confessed that I committed the murder, but I assert, as I have always done, that I was not instigated from a desire of robbery. My bad and passionate temper impelled me to commit the crime. My sentence was a just one, and I willingly accept the punishment. I expect to meet all Christian friends and church members in Heaven, where we will part no more, I am very thankful to all American citizens of this county for their kindness. I die [illegible] for I know that God will mercifully look down upon me in my sorow, and that Jesus Christ will receive me, as he did the repentant thief, into Paradise. There, then, will be no more trouble and sorrow. May you all take warning from my fate and strive to control your temper, for my bad, excitable temper has brought me where I now stand, I bid you all a hearty farewell. May God bless you, and may Lord Jesus Christ receive my soul. Amen.—Mrs. Biehl, wife of Albert J. Biehl, formerly of Mechanicsburg, at Carlisle on Saturday a week last was gored in the stomach by a vicious cow and so severely injured that for some time her life was despaired of.

FRANKLIN.—John Stoler, aged 84 years, died suddenly at his residence near Mt. Hope, on the 20th inst., from the effects of an attack of paralysis, with which he was stricken down on Sunday.—John Jones, an aged and well known citizen, was found dead in his stable, at Poketown, Wednesday afternoon, the 15th inst. He had been at the house of Mr. Samuel Shank, one of his neighbors, where he ate a hearty dinner, and a short time after returning went to the stable to see after a horse. After considerable time search was made for him, and he was found sitting in a trough, his head resting upon his hand, dead.

YORK.—A stock company is to be organized to secure a Trotting Park at Hanover.

NEARLY all of the Prelates arriving at Rome to attend the Œcumencial Council conveyed thither presents for the Pope. The United States Bishops took nearly $300,000 in money altogeter. The Archbishop of Lima, ninety-four years old, being too feeble to visit the "Eternal City," sent his pastoral rod as a present to the Pope. It is made of pure Peruvian gold and is worth $10,000. This was accompanied by a basket of flowers in pure silver filagree work, containing $2,000 in gold. The Archbishop of Quito presented a golden chalice, set with precious stones. The Archbishop of Carracas brought $20,000 in gold and very many valuable trinkets which the women of Venezuela by hundreds insisted that he should give to Pio Nono. Captain Gordon, in behalf of the Catholics of England, presented to the Pope about $20,000 in gold. Father Moriano Matteini, of Rimini, presents a wonderful bronze gilt bell, made by himself, which he implores the Pope to make use of in the Council. This work is entirely symbolical, no part of it being without some allusion to the Council. The handle is formed by a kneeling angle on a base, with silver clouds, bearing on his shoulders a gilded cross with silver rays. The Papal cross and pastorial, the Pope's arms, tiara and keys are grouped together. The bell itself is very elaborate; but the principal feature is the Immaculate Conception, surrounded by five doves bearing olive branches. The clapper represents the mystic bark of St. Peter, with a reversed cross for mast and a smaller cross for helm. A serpent, with three-forked tongue, failing to get into the bark, plunges into the waves below.

SAD RAILROAD ACCIDENT—YOUNG GIRL KILLED.—A young and beautiful German girl, about 16 years of age, met with a sad and sudden death last night, on the Harlem Railroad, a short distance north of the Morrisania Depot. It appears that the Harlem train going north, and the New Haven 8.10 down passenger train—the latter being behind time and running under a high rate of speed—passed each other there. The engineers of both trains observed the girl and sounded the alarm whistle, when she sprung from before the Harlem train across the other track, and was struck and instantly killed by the New Haven engine, her body being hurled some twenty feet in the air. When the train was stopped and backed up to the spot, the body was found terrible broken. A shawl was found pinned about the head, which probably prevented her from hearing the trains. A portion of an evergreen wreath was found on her person, and near by were several toys, which she had evidently purchased for Christmas gifts.—N. Y. Times, Saturday.

A WOLF has been committing fearful ravages in Russia. In the course of a few hours the brute killed three human beings, more or less wounded 31 adult persons, and 54 head of cattle. But this by no means describes the injury done, for to all appearances the wolf was affected with hydrophobia. All the wounded persons agree that he had foam upon his mouth and the tail was hanging down. Only when attacking any one did he raise the latter, and spring upon his hind legs, always aiming at the head. The dogs and swine which had been bitten in the villages were immediately shot. Cattle and horses are now under veterinary treatment. One horse was shot on the day following the wound, and six others on the day succeeding that, after showing distinct signs of hydrophobia. The greatest excitement prevailed among the entire population. Nobody would venture into the fields or in the forest in the neighborhood where the misfortune occurred.

OLD AND YOUNG DEMOCRACY.—A gentleman who has been elected as one of the Civil Justices in our city, in a speech accepting the nomination from a Democratic Convention, said: "Gentlemen, for twenty-seven years I have been a worker in the Democratic ranks. I have voted the Democratic ticket twenty-seven times. You thus see I can claim to be a good Democrat." A young man of about one-and-twenty, who was standing by, was heard to say, in an undertone; "I am a better Democrat than you. I can beat you hollow, for I have voted the Democrat ticket twenty-seven times in one day."—N. Y. Sun.

NATIONAL BEREAVEMENT!

DEATH OF HON. EDWIN M. STANTON.

Last Hours of the Illustrious Deceased.

DEATH-BED OF THE GREAT WAR SECRETARY.

(From the Philadelphia Inquirer.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.

Since the assassination of President Lincoln nothing has so startled the community here as the death of Mr. Stanton. When first announced, this morning, no one believed it, and it was only after the sad report was investigated by every one, that conviction forced itself upon all that the American Carnot had gone forever from among mortals. He had been in better health this fall than for three years past, having got nearly free from the asthma which troubled him so much, and was so greatly improved by his visit North, last summer, that he felt as though he would regain his health, which had been wrecked by so long and incessant mental strain in the War Department, but he had miscalculated his strength. He was too near worn out to recover.

Ten days ago he had symptoms of dropsy, and under the care of Surgeon-General Barnes he was slowly, but surely, rallying from its assault. Yesterday he did not seem very cheerful, but his family were not alarmed, because they had seen him so frequently before, and on several occasions worse than he was then.

About nine o'clock last night Dr. Barnes called and sat with him for a couple of hours, and left him thinking him in no immediate danger, and believing that the fatal disease was again baffled, Mr. Barnes went down stairs to depart, and, meeting E. L. Stanton, Jr., in the hall, he stepped in the library and chatted with him for over half an hour or so, when, feeling a desire to see if the patient slept easily, he went up stairs and found that new and dangerous symptoms were manifesting themselves, and that he was fainting away.

The doctor applied restoratives, and about one A. M. the illustrious patriot recovered his consciousness but not his voice. He seemed to know who were with him, but spoke not, Then his family were called to his bedside to receive his parting farewell, but it came not. The Minister of the Epiphany (Episcopal) Church was sent for, and came about two A. M., but was not recognized by Mr. Stanton. He did not seem to suffer much pain. He had not murmured all night, but each pulsation of his heart grew fainter and fainter until he sank into a soft sleep, and passed away about three P. M., so quietly and peacefully that it did not seem like death, but only like the refreshing sleep of an invalid.

IMMEDIATE CAUSE OF DEATH.

The doctor pronounces the fatal disease congestion of the heart; that Stanton was so weak from his long illness and recent attack of dropsy that, when taken with the fainting spell at midnight, he was left so weak that he could not rally to resist the congestion that had set in, and was soon beyond the reach of human skill, and the life of the greatest man that the late war developed flickered out as a dying candle, leaving his family in the room of darkness. Dark, indeed, for them, for beyond the house in which they live, there is not a dollar of property left to feed, clothe or educate the children.

INTEGRITY OF THE GREAT WAR SECRETARY.

When Mr. Stanton went into the Cabinet of Mr. Lincoln his law practice was worth twenty thousand dollars per annum. He was six years Secretary of War, and in all that time he expended his salary, and drew upon his private fortune so largely that when, about two years ago, he left the public service, he found his property all gone excepting his dwelling, and for the last two years he has had to resort to his profession to secure the means of living for himself and family. He was too sensitive to let any one know his circumstances, and toiled when he should have rested.

HIS LAST CASE AT THE BAR.

Two weeks ago he made an argument before Justice Swayne, that the latter pronounced the best he ever heard in his life.

ZEAL AS A LAWYER.

He never would take a case without earning his fee and did not charge one-third the value of his services. A month ago he was sent a handsome retainer in the case of the State of Pennsylvania vs. the Credit Mobilier. He wrote to Louis Hall, who represented the State of Pennsylvania, and asked him, as a personal favor, to let the case rest until he had time to prepare himself to be heard for the Credit Mobilier, that he had only just been employed, and he would not go into court with any case until he understood it in all its bearings.

Mr. Hall wrote refusing any delay. The trial, he said, must come off on the ensuing Monday. Then Mr. Stanton returned the fee and wrote that he could not do the company justice on so short a notice for preparation, He needed that money, needed it badly too; but he could not keep it because he could not feel that he could earn it on so short a notice.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF HIS DEATH.

The death of Mr. Stanton was first announced to the President, who was walking in Pennsylvania avenue at the time, by Senator Williams. The President's first remark was one of surprise, and when assured of the fact, his head dropped upon his breast, and he showed much emotion.

The President at once issued the following order:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C Dec. 24, 1869.—The painful duty devolves upon the President of announcing to the people of the United States the death of one of its most distinguished and faithful servants, the Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, which occurred in this city at an early hour this morning. He was distinguished in the councils of the nation during the entire period of its recent struggle for national existence, first as Attorney General, then as Secretary of War. He was unceasing in his labors, earnest and fearless in the assumption of the responsibilities necessary to his country's success, respected by all good men, and feared by wrongdoers. In his death the Bar, the Bench, and the Nation sustain a great loss, which will be mourned by all.

As a mark of respect to his memory, it is ordered that the Executive Mansion and the several departments at Washington be draped in mourning, and that all business be suspended on the day of the funeral.

U. S. GRANT.

The Orders were issued from the various departments, all referring in complimentary terms to the deceased. We give in full that of the Secretary of War:

WAR DEPARTMENT, Dec. 24, 1869.—The eminent ability of the late Secretary of War, his great legal acquirements, his firm patriotism and his steady devotion to duty in the most trying times of the republic, when many others faltered, have commanded the admiration of the county, while his management of this department during the days when a man of determined energy and will was demanded, has marked his term of office one unequaled in administration.

It is ordered that the offices connected with the Department of War be draped in mourning for the period of thirty days, and all business suspended therein on the day of the funeral, and that on the day after the receipt of this order at each military post, fifteen guns be fired at appropriate intervals, commencing at meridian.

WILLIAM W. BELKNAP,
Secretary of War.

SKETCH OF THE EX-WAR MINISTER.

The Washington Star of yesterday gives the following interesting sketch of the deceased:

Edwin M. Stanton was born at Steubenville, Ohio, December 19th, 1815. At the age of thirteen he became a clerk in the bookstore of James Turnbull, of Steubenville. After three years spent there, in the year 1831, he became a student at Kenyon College, where he remained until some time in the year 18[illegible]. After leaving college he was again employed as a clerk in the bookstore of James Turnbull, at Columbus. He subsequently studied law in the office of his guardian, Daniel L. Collier, Esq., at Steubenville, and at the age of twenty-one (in 1836) was admitted to the bar. He immediately commenced to practice his profession at Cadiz, Harrison county, Ohio, and was elected prosecuting attorney of the county. Shortly afterward, having acquired a large circuit practice, he removed to his native town of Steubenville, and in 1842 was elected by the General Assembly of Ohio reporter of the decisions of the Supreme Court. He prepared and published volumes eleven, twelve and thirteen of the Ohio State Reports. Though Mr. Stanton's attention was chiefly given to his profession, yet, even at this time, he took a somewhat active part in the politics of his county and State as a member of the Democratic party.

In 1847, he began to practice law in Pittsburg, as a partner of the Hon. Charles Shaler, and although retaining an office at Steubenville, his attention was chiefly given to cases before the courts of Pennsylvania and the United States District, Circuit and Supreme Courts. Among the most important causes in which he was engaged were those known as the "Erie War" cases, in which he was counsel for the railroad company, and the Wheeling Bridge case, which he conducted as counsel for the State of Pennsylvania. In the latter part of 1856 he removed to Washington city, to attend to his practice before the Supreme Court of the United States, in which he had acquired a leading and lucrative practice. In 1858 he went to California as special counsel for the Government in certain land cases, involving public interests of great magnitude, and for the management of these cases he received fees almost unexampled.

In December, 1860, while engaged before the United States Circuit Court at Cincinnati, in a suit arising out of the conflicting interests of the Manny and McCormick reaping machine—it was at an earlier stage of this litigation, in 1859, and at the same place, that he first met Mr. Lincoln, who was counsel on the same side—he was nominated to the office of Attorney General by President Buchanan, whose old Cabinet was then falling to pieces around him. Mr. Stanton's attitude throughout the remainder of Mr. Buchanan's administration was that of determined opposition to the traitors in the Cabinet, and resolute maintenance of the national honor.

At the expiration of Mr. Buchanan's term he resumed his profession, but did not relax his interest or efforts in behalf of the national cause. On the 20th of January, 1862, he was appointed by Mr. Lincoln, Secretary of War. He continued a member of Mr. Lincoln's Cabinet, enjoying the most cordial friendship and confidence of the President throughout the rest of his first term, and during his second term up to the time of Mr. Lincoln's assassination. On the 5th of August, 1867, Mr. Johnson requested his resignation, upon the alleged ground of public considerations of a high character, to which Secretary Stanton replied, that 'public considerations of a high character which alone had induced him to remain at the head of this Department, constrained him not to resign before the next meeting of Congress."

On the 12th of August Mr. Johnson notified him of his suspension from the office of Secretary of War. During his services as Secretary of War, after Mr. Johnson's accession, Mr. Stanton supported the following measures passed by Congress against the President's opposition: 1st. Freedmen's Bureau bill, 2d. The Civil Rights bill. 3d. The bill giving suffrage without regard to color in the District of Columbia. 4th. The bill admitting Colorado as a State. 5th. The several acts known as the Reconstruction Acts, providing for the establishment of Governments in the Rebel States.

His relations to General McClellan and the Peninsular campaign; his relations to the rebel excursions in the Shenandoah Valley and the defence of the Capital; his relations to the changes of armies and commanders the building up and pulling down of military reputations; the plans of campaigns; the recruiting of the army; the policy of the Government on the question of slavery, and a score of other matters almost equally important, would furnish material for volumes. He was throughout Mr. Lincoln's administration all powerful. It was with reference to some robust action of Mr. Stanton's in opposition to his own wishes that Mr. Lincoln, in reply to a personal appeal for aid, made the jocose remark so often quoted, that he (Lincoln) had very little influence with this Administration. As War Minister, Mr. Stanton was quick and decided. His strong willed action and unpropritiatory manners will influence contemporary judgment on Mr. Stanton, but cannot greatly affect his permanent place in the history of the war. To call him the organization of victory is to use a phrase that has become cant, and to avoid a compliment which he has himself expressly and conspicuously disclaimed. Yet it is the title to which his service and his success fairly point. Mr. Stanton was credited to Pennsylvania in the record of Cabinet appointments, by reason of his having kept for a little time a law office at Pittsburg; but he always regarded Steubenville, Ohio, as his home. For many years, however, he has resided in this city. Before entering the Cabinet he had amassed a considerable fortune in the practice of his profession, in which he stood among the foremost lawyers at the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States. For some years he had been afflicted with an asthma, which, to some extent, impaired his activity, but not the powers of his mind, which were never more vigorous than in the last months of his life. His last case was before Associate Justice Swayne, of the United States Supreme Court, which he argued in chambers, on the 9th, 10th, 11th and 13th instants.

His appointment as Judge of the Supreme Court was made without solicitation, direct or indirect, on his own part, and by the request of a large majority of the Senators and Representatives, supported by an equally unanimous request by the press of the country. His unanimous confirmation by the Senate, without the form of reference to a committee, afforded notable evidence of the opinion in which his qualifications and services were held by that body. As a matter of fact it may be mentioned in this connection, that his commission as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, although prepared at the State Department and signed by Secretary Fish, had not been delivered to the deceased, as up to yesterday evening it lacked the signature of the President, and had, therefore, not yet become a perfected document.

THE FUNERAL OBSEQUIES.

WASHINGTON, December 27.—Notwithstanding the continued rains and bad weather, the funeral services of the late Hon. E. M. Stanton were numerously attended this morning.

President Grant and Vice President Colfax, with Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Colfax, Mrs. Walcott, Mrs. Warfield, Mrs. Browne, Mrs. Harrison and daughters, were the immediate mourners, with the family. They remained in private rooms with Mrs. Stanton and her children until 12:10, and then proceeded to the lower parlors, where the remains were. Here the Rev. Dr. Stickney, Rev. Dr. Pinckney, and Rev. Dr. Sparrow performed the impressive burial service of the Episcopal Church.

In the rear of the parlor were the Senators and Representatives, the folding doors being thrown open when the services began. Chief Justice Chase and Associate Justices Swayne, Field, Miller and Davis of the United States Supreme Court, and the Judges of the District Court were present. A committee of five members of the Union League of New York arrived in time to attend the obsequies. Messrs. Fish, Belknap, Cresswell, Robeson and Cox, of the Cabinet, were with the family mourners until after the services, when they were assigned their places in the procession.

No funeral sermon was preached, the services being quite long. Mrs. Stanton being in ill health, it was with difficulty she could walk to the carriage. She was escorted by her step-son, E. L. Stanton, and her brother-in-law, M. A. Hutchinson.

For over an hour the back parlour was crowded with Congressmen, together with General Sherman and a number of army and navy officers, the latter in undress uniform, carrying side arms. The table in the centre was covered with a variety of bouquets, floral wreaths, crosses; a complete crown of glory, made of white roses and japonicas, by Mrs. Senator Chandler, was an attraction to the distinguished persons in the room.

The passage ways and small rooms were crowded with officers and chiefs of the various Bureaus of the Government Departments, whilst the city authorities and a number of citizens increased the throng.

At 10 o'clock the funeral services concluded, the coffin was conveyed to the hearse by a squad of ten soldiers in the full uniform of the 5th artillery.

The pall-bearers were Secretary Belknap and Postmaster General Creswell, Senators Sumner, Carpenter and Chandler, Representatives Judd and Hooper, Judges Swayne and Cartter, Generals Barnes and Townsend, Hon. E. Pierrepont, of New York, and Gen. Eckert.

The cortege reached Oak Hill Cemetery at 1 o'clock, where the remains were interred, after brief funeral ceremonies.

SECRETARY STANTON'S RELIGIOUS CHARACTER.

Now that Mr. Stanton is dead, many people are unsealing their lips with incidents of his life, which his desires and wishes have heretofore kept concealed. Few people who met him in ordinary business knew to what an extent he was literally a God fearing man, and to what an extent he believed in prayer. Rev. Dr. Gray, late pastor of the E Street Baptist Church of Washington city, related in the course of a sermon delivered at Washington on Sunday the following interesting personal incidnent: About two years ago while Mr. Stanton was holding possession of the War Office and a voluntary prisoner, therein, Rev. Mr. Fulton, of Boston, came on, and while here requested me to accompany him on a visit to Mr. Stanton. We went, and were very cordially received by him. Mr. Fulton addressed him and said: "I have made you a special subject of prayer and have regarded you as the saviour of our country, and I believe God has heard prayer on your behalf." After congratulating him on the noble stand he had taken during war, the services he had rendered his country, and also the stand he had taken at the time, Mr. Stanton said; Gentlemen, I believe in God and I believe in prayer, although I am not a professor of religion in the common acceptation of the term; and when during the war, I received discouraging despatches from the army, I would lock the door, spread out the despatches, and kneel down and pray to God to save my country, and then go and talk with Mr. Lincoln." Mr. Fulton then said; "Mr. Stanton, this is an interesting incident in the History of the war, am I at liberty to repeat it?" He replied: "Not now. Were this statement to be made public under existing circumstances, my enemies would regard it as a bid for the sympathy and support of the praying portion of the country. Wait till I am dead, then you may tell it." Just as they were about to leave, Mr. Stanton rose and locked the door, and said: "Gentlemen, I would like to have you spend a few moments in prayer." Mr. Fulton, in his brusque way, said; "Gray, pray." Mr. Gray did so, and then Mr. Fulton prayed most earnestly for him. During prayer Mr. Stanton wept like a child.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS

seem to possess the quality of

Accumulating Electricity

and imparting it to the body, whereby the circulation of the blood becomes equalized upon the parts where applied, causing pain and morbid action to cease.— The Porous Plasters are flexible, and found of a great help to those who have weak backs, or pain in the side. Especially are they valuable to those who have neglected colds. They are often preventives of Consumption; nay, they are believed to have loosened the grasp of this terrible affliction, and been mainly instrumental in effecting a cure. In variable climates they should be worn on the breast or between the shoulders, or over the kidneys, by those who are subject to take cold easily. [Dec. 3—1m

TO OWNERS OF HORSES.

THOUSANDS OF HORSES DIE YEARLY FROM Colic. This need not be. Dr. Tobias' Venetian Horse Liniment will positively cure every case, if given when first taken. The cost is only one dollar. Every owner of a horse should have a bottle in his stable, ready for us. It is warranted superior to anything else for the cure of Cuts, Wind Galls, Swellings, Sore Throat, Sprains, Bruises, Old Sores, &c. The Liniment is no new remedy. It has been used and approved of for 22 years by the first horsemen in the country. Given to an over-driven horse, it acts like magic. Orders are constantly received from the racing stables of England for it. The celebrated Hiram Woodruff, of trotting fame, used it for years. Col. Philo P. Bush of the Jerome Race Course, has given a Certificate which can be seen at the depot, stating that after years of trial, it is the best in the world. His address is Fordham, N. Y. No one once using it will ever be without it. It is put up in Pint Bottles. Sold by the Druggists and Saddlers, throughout the United States. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York. [Dec 3—1m

SPECIAL NOTICE.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint, and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver, and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe, a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care), that will unlock the gall-bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills, or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord.— No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease, and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success. Full directions accompanying each, make it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless the patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.— He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond street, New York, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists.

Gettysburg, Friday, Dec. 31, 1869.

CARRIER'S GREETING.—The Printer's "devil," carrier, and employees of the office generally, have been busy during the past week, getting out some mysterious document, which we take to be the annual greeting of the Carrier Boy.—He and lieutenans will be on hand Saturday morning, and hope to find their friends prepared to return the greeting with substantial evidences of good will.

SALES.—Mr. William Ruff, of New Salem, has purchased the new brick house of Mr. Overdeer, on Baltimore street, this place, at $5,000—the latter taking the Benner property, across the alley, at $2,600.

Edward Stahl has sold his property in Abbottstown to Mr. Martin for $1,600.

Josiah Benner, Esq., has purchased the Weismantle property on Rock creek, Harrisburg road, for $250.

A WEEK OF PRAYER.—It is well known that the first week of the new year is observed, by Christians of various denominations, as a season for special prayer and mutual edification. We understand that such meetings will be held in the churches in New Oxford—the first on Monday and Tuesday afternoon, in the German Reformed Church; on Wednesday and Thursday in the Lutheran Church; and on Friday and Saturday in the Methodist Church.

PLEASANT SURPRISE.—On Thursday night of last week, a number of ladies and gentlemen of the Reformed Church in this place made a "surprise visit" to the parsonage, bearing quite a number of acceptable gifts for their Pastor, Rev. W. H. R. DEATRICH, and the different members of the family, including eatables and substantials of various kinds. The whole matter had been judiciously managed, and took the good Pastor by surprise. Mr. Deatrich is laboring with marked success in his congregation, and enjoys their confidence and esteem, as has been manifested by frequent testimonials.

EXAMINATIONS.—The Common Schools of Gettysburg closed their first session on Thursday of last week, preceded by a public examination of all the schools. The examinations, we understand, passed off creditably, and to the satisfaction of the Board—all the members of which, with a single exception were in attendance. The Schools will reopen on the first Monday in January.

John M. Krauth, Esq., has been appointed Director to fill the vacancy occasioned by the removal of Wm. R. Eyster, Esq.

Some of the Teachers were made the recipients of handsome gifts from the pupils. The pupils of School No. 1, on the day preceeding their examination, gave their Teacher, Capt. John. F. M'Creary, to understand that they would like to be dismissed, and have possesssion of the school room for a few hours. They had a still further surprise in store for him. Upon his return to the school room next morning, he found that his pupils had made good use of the recess—the stove being nicely blackened—the room carefully cleaned up—and the walls profusely decorated with appropriate mottoes entwined with myrtle—all the work of the pupils of his department.

CHRISTMAS IN NEW OXFORD.—A correspondent advises us that the good people of New Oxford had a joyous time on Christmas day, notwithstanding the inclement weather. Numerous gatherings took place, and warm hospitality prevailed throughout. There was preaching in the morning, and at noon a Fox Chase took place, when some of the sportsmen of the neighborhood and from Hanover joined in the chase. The fox was let loose about one o'clock, and after making several circuits about town, made for the hills. When a few miles from town he was holed and caught alive. Another chase is to take place on Saturday, New Year's day.

In the evening a Christmas festival was held in German Reformed Church, by the Teachers, Officers and children of the School. The Church is said to have been beautifully decorated, and two large "Christmas Trees" filled with presents for scholars and friends. The scholars' presents amounted to 144, besides 220 more given to individuals. An address was delivered by the Pastor, Mr. Davis, suitable for the occasion, and everything passed off pleasantly.

We also learn that there were quite a number of gifts given during the day, and some very valuable ones. One in particular, worthy of note, was given to a Teacher of the German Reformed Sunday-school—a large Oil Painting of the "Trial of Christ before Pontius Pilate." A large Quilt too was the gift of a mother to her daughter, that contained 2888 pieces, and all pieced by the mother herself.

MASONIC.—On Monday night last the officers of "Good Samaritan Lodge No. 336, A. Y. M.," were installed by R. H. Thomas, Esq., of Mechanicsburg, R. W. D. G. M. of this district. The officers for the ensuing year are:—D. A. Buehler, W. M.; A. J. Cover, S. W.; H. J. Stahle, J. W.; H. S. Benner, S.; John Rupp, T.; Wm. E. Culp, S. M. C.; D. A. Skelley, J. M. C.; Wm. McClean, P.; J. M. Krauth, S. D.; Rufus E. Culp, J. D.; Rev. W. R. H. Deatrich, Chaplain; John Geiselman, Tyler.

After the installation of officers the members of the Lodge, and visiting members of other Lodges, took the cars for the Springs Hotel, where an elegant entertainment had been prepared by the gentlemanly proprietor, Mr. Hoppes. It was gotten up in Mr. H's best style, for which he is noted. After supper came the "feast of reason and flow of soul," with brief speeches in response to various sentiments. The first offered was to the R. W. Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, which was responded to by R. W. D. Grand Master R. H. Thomas. W. A. Duncan, Esq., Col. E. G. Fahnestock, Col. C. H. Buehler, Dr. J. W. C. O'Neal, Capt. J. F. McCreary, A. J. Cover, Esq., H. C. Peters, H. J. Stahle, Rev. Deatrich, G. M. Howell, J. C. Neely, H. B. Woods, J. M. Krauth, H. S. Flowers, George Hoppes, and others, were called out during the evening. After an hour or two of pleasant social enjoyment the party returned to town with favorable impressions of Mr. Hoppes, proprietor of the Springs Hotel, and Mr. Howell, President of the Passenger Railway, both of whom extended every possible courtesy in providing for their comfort. It may be proper to add that no "wine list" was provided for the entertainment, the only beverages being coffee, tea and water.

RE-APPOINTED.—On Monday last, being St. John's Day, the officers elect of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania were installed at the Masonic Hall, in Philadelphia, viz:

Robert B. Lamberton, Right Worshipful Grand Master.

Samuel C. Perkins, Deputy Grand Master.

Alfred R. Poller, Senior Grand Warden.

Robert Clark, Junior Grand Warden.

Peter Williamson, Grand Treasurer.

John Thomson, Grand Secretary.

R. W. G. M. Robert A. Lamberton announced his appointments for the year.—Hon. R. J. Fisher, of York, is re-appointed Chairman of the Committee on Correspondence; Charles M. Howell, Esq., of Lancaster, District Deputy Grand Master for Lancaster and York counties, and Robert H. Thomas, Esq., of Mechanicsburg, District Deputy Grand Master for Cumberland, Adams, Franklin and Fulton counties. Mr. Thomas enjoys, in a marked degree, the confidence and esteem of the Lodges in his district, and the membership will be gratified to know that his official relations to them are to continue.

CHRISTMAS.—We are glad to notice by our exchanges that the custom of observing Christmas is growing into favor, and year by year is becoming more general.—We read of Christmas trees and Christmas festivities in Churches, Sabbath Schools, Orphan Homes, and the various benevolent and charitable institutions with which the country abounds. It is a good old custom—healthful in all its associations, and not only a source of intense joy to the little-folks, but important in its religious bearings, by directing marked attention to the central truth of the Christain system—the Advent and Incarnation of the blessed Saviour.

In Gettysburg the day was generally observed, and bright faces and pleasant greetings marked the meetings of old and young who thronged our streets or exchanged social visits. We hear of quite a number of Christmas Trees in private residences—some of them elaborately and artistically gotten up—and embracing all denominations, Catholic, Lutheran, Reformed, Methodist and Presbyterian.

On Christmas eve, at the Catholic church, the services, as usual, were very impressive, and attracted much attention.

REFORMED SABBATH SCHOOL.

The Reformed Church Sabbath School convened in the Lecture room of the church on Christmas eve, and enjoyed a most delightful season. The exercises (for a memorandum of which we are indebted to a friend,) were introduced by the School singing an appropriate Anthem. The beautiful Christmas service of the Church was then gone through with, the Pastor leading. At its close Mr. Richards, one of the Teachers in the Infant Department, delivered an interesting and fitting address.—Several Anthems were sung after the address, when the Christmas gifts were given to all, Scholars and Teachers. Owing to repairs going forward in the Church the Christmas Tree had to be disposed with, but the gifts were none the less acceptable to the children. A large amount of candy was equally divided among the Scholars and Teachers, by the Pastor, as their respective names were called out. The children in the Infant School, under the care of Miss Annie Danner, each received, in connection with their candy, a beautiful Card and Book. Private gifts were the joy of the evening—not a Teacher or Scholar missing. These gifts were presented in a public way—each Scholar and Teacher going forward to receive it. Miss Eva Danner was made the happy recipient of an elegant copy of Milton's complete works Miss Annie Danner and Mr. Richards were kindly remembered by their side of the School. 'Tis difficult to discriminate; Mrs. W. A. Duncan, Mrs. John Winebrenner, and the venerable Superintendent, Mr. Guyer, were not forgotten.

An interesting feature of the evening was the presentation of the Rewards, promised a year ago:

1st. To the scholar committing the largest number of verses of the Scriptures. The reward was won by Lillie Frey, of the Youth's Department, and by Fannie Frey, of the Infant Department.

2d. To the scholar or scholars most regular and punctual in their attendance during the year. The rewards were given to Irene Danner, Ella Buehler, Emma Wolff, Clara Rebert and Ada Deatrich. The Choir of the congregation remembered the Pastor in a handsome present.

CHRIST CHURCH SABBATH SCHOOL.

The Sabbath School of Christ Church (Lutheran) also had a pleasant time on Christmas eve. A large Christmas Tree had been put up in the Church, reaching from the floor to the ceiling, profusely decorated and heavily laden with oranges, sacks of candies, and gifts for the children of the Senior and Infant Departments, provided by the Teachers. There were also many private gifts from Teachers to their Classes—from Classes to Teachers—and from Scholars to each other—some of them costly and valuable. Indeed so numerous were these special gifts that it was found impossible to put them all on the tree, and many were deposited on the platform.

At 7½ o'clock the School met in the Church, which was well filled by members of the congregation and visitors from other Churches. The services consisted of singing appropriate Christmas hymns, reading of the Scriptures, Prayer by Dr. Schmucker, and brief addresses by Prof. Martin, Dr. Valentine and Dr. Hay. After the addresses, while the Choir sang a Chant, the Christmas Tree was lighted up, with about 150 tapers, presenting a beautiful appearance. The distribution of gifts then commenced, each Teacher and Scholar coming forward as their names were called—some of them repeatedly—until the tree was stripped of its precious fruit. Most of the private gifts were carefully put up, with the names of the donors concealed, so that even the recipients knew not their character or source, until careful examination revealed not only the gift itself but with it probably a little message of love and kind wishes from some cherished friend, which enhanced the value of the gift. Thus it was, that while all were remembered and shared in the pleasure of the evening, there were many pleasant surprises to give zest and interest to the occasion. The Pastor of the Church, Rev. Dr. Hay, and the officers of the School were not forgotten, each receiving a handsome gift. Much credit is due to the Committee of ladies and gentlemen who had the affair in charge, and whose laborious efforts contributed largely to have it pass off pleasantly.

BURNED OUT.—We regret to learn that the office of the Fulton Democrat, in McConnelsburg, was entirely destroyed by fire on the morning of the 23rd inst.—The fire is supposed to have originated from a pile of ashes under the office. Almost everything was burnt. The forms were on the press, almost ready to go to work, and went down with the press.—The proprietor, SMITH ROBINSON, a graduate of the Compiler office, has our sincere sympathy in his loss. Although he prints wretchedly bad politics, he is a clever fellow, and we hope he may soon get his office re-fitted.

IMPROVEMENT.—Mr. Peter F. Henry has built a two-story frame dwelling house, with back kitchen, in Hamiltonban township.

A LARGE EAR.—Mr. Theo. Jones, of Menallen township, raised on his farm last season some good corn, one ear of which measured 14½ inches in length.

THE LITTLE CORPORAL.—This brilliant juvenile for January makes its appearance in a new dress, with new engraved title page on the cover. It claims to have a larger circulation than any other juvenile magazine in the world; and deserves its great popularity, both because of its originality and sterling worth, and because it gives so much for so small a price, only one dollar a year. Published by Alfred L. Sewell & Co., Chicago, Ill. All the children should have it. It will make them happier, all through the year. All who subscribe before the first of the year will receive the Nov. and Dec. Nos. of the old year free.

PUTNAM'S MAGAZINE for January contains a history of Father Hyacinthe and his church, by Hon. John Bigelow with an excellent portrait of the famous priest. There is an earnest paper on the relations of Cuba and Spain, which urges that the Cubans are entitled to recognition by our government. A new novel, called "A Woman's Right," by Mrs. Mary Clemmer Ames, of the Independent, is begun. Putnam is always fresh and sparkling, and is especially the medium of whatever is new and attractive in the literary field.

SINGULAR.—The Howe Sewing machine is the only machine sold on trial. dec.31-3t

THE NIGHT AFTER CHRISTMAS.

FROM PUNCH.

'Twas the night after Christmas, when all through the house
Every soul was abed, and still as a mouse;
Those stockings so late in St. Nicholas' care
Were empty of all that was eatable there;
The darlings had duly been tucked in their beds,
With very full stomachs, and pains in their heads;
I was dozing away in my new cotton cap,
And Nancy was rather far gone in a nap,
When out in the nursery rose such a clatter,
I sprang from my sleep, crying, "What is the matter?"
I flew to each bedside—still half in a doze—
Tore open the curtains, and threw off the clothes;
While the light of the taper served clearly to show
The piteous plight of those objects below:
For what to the fond father's eyes should appear
But the little pale face of each little dear!
For each pet that had crammed itself full as a tick
I knew in a moment now felt like old Nick.
Their pulses were rapid, their breathings the same;
What their stomachs ejected I'll mention by name:
Now turkey, now stuffing, plum-pudding, of course,
And custards, and crullers, and cranberry sauce;
Before outraged nature all went to the wall,
Yes, lollypops, flapdoodle, dinner and all.
Like pellets which urchins from popguns let fly
Went figs, nuts, and raisins, jam, jelly, and pie;
Till each error of diet was brought to my view,
To the shame of mamma and Santa Claus, too.
I turnd from the sight, to my bedroom stepped back,
And brought out a vial marked "Pulv. Ipecac.;"
When my Nancy exclaimed, for their sufferings shocked her,
"Don't you think you had better, love, run for a doctor?"
I ran; and was scarcely back under my roof
When I heard the sharp clatter of old Jalap's hoof:
I might say that I scarcely had turned myself round
When the Doctor came into the room with a bound.
He was covered with mud from his head to his foot,
And the suit he had on was his very worst suit;
He hardly had time to put that on his back,
And he looked like a Falstaff half fuddled with sack;
His eyes, how they twinkled! Had the Doctor go merry?
His lips looked like port, and his breath smelt like sherry.
He hadn't been shaved for a fortnight or so,
And the beard on his chin wasn't white as the snow.
But, inspecting their tongues, in spite of their teeth,
And drawing his watch from his waistcoat beneath,
He felt of each pulse, saying, "Each little belly
Must get rid"—here he laughed—"of the rest of that jelly."
I gazed on each chubby, plumb, sick little elf,
And groaned when he said so, in spite of myself;
But a wink of his eye, when he physicked our Fred,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.
He didn't prescribe; but went straightway to work,
And dosed all the rest—gave his trowsers a jerk—
And, adding directions while blowing his nose,
He buttoned his coat, from his chair he arose,
Then jumped in his gig, gave old Jalap a whistle,
And Jalap dashed off as if pricked by a thistle:
But the Doctor exclaimed, ere he drove out of sight,
"They'll be well by to-morrow: good-night, Jones, good-night."

CHRISTMAS EVENING AT THE NATIONAL HOMESTEAD.—I do not know when I spent a pleasanter evening, than I did on the 25th, at the above named place. Tableaus and speeches were the order of the evening, interspersed with music, vocal and instrumental, by Mrs. Buckler and her three daughters, whom she has lately brought to the Home to share in the instructions of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton, who so ably fill the position of parents and preceptors to the orphans committed to their care. A silver coin was presented during the evening to the pupil who had committed to memory the greatest number of verses in a stated time.—The donor was a gentleman who visited the institution, some time since, and left it for that purpose. The person selected to present it was the Rev. Mr. Hillis, and the happy recipient was Lyman Beecher Brown. We were then all invited to the "sewing room" where a treat was in store for us in the shape of three large Christmas-trees, laden with rich though not forbidden fruit; for after a visit and speech from old "Sixty-nine," with his frosty locks and snowy beard, the distribution of the good things began and each one received an ample share. Upon looking around upon the group of over a hundred children, we were reminded of the "Old woman who lived in a shoe,

And had so many children, she didn't know what to do."

But when we saw so many eyes dancing with pleasure, as arms were laden to their utmost capacity, we were forced to the conclusion that the latter part of that ancient poem could have no application there, viz:

"She gave them some broth, without any bread,
And a good sound whipping and sent them to bed."

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE, for January, opens the fifth volume, and commences a third year. The publishers announce that they will use every means to render it more entertaining and attractive, and that, so soon as the current serials are completed, less space will be given to such matter—a change we have suggested, and that will, we think, add materially to the value and circulation of the Magazine. There are five more chapters of the Vicar and two of Beyond the Breakers, in the January number. There are two Christmas tales and a Christmas poem. There are three short stories and two short poems. There is a sketch of the founding of the Capitol, and the usual miscellany. Mr. Spencer accompanies his philosophy of self-importance with some amusing anecdotes, and Mr. Stockton's fairy is a neat though not novel production of a familiar German idea of the season. The story about going an errand is vivid and well told. Mr. Snowden considers the proposal for an international coinage.

"OLD AND NEW," is the comprehensive title of a new Monthly Magazine published by Hurd and Houghton, the first number of which lies before us. Among its contributors, are the familiar names of Henry W. Bellows, E. E. Hale, Robert Collyer, J. F. Clarke, and Mrs. Harriet B. Stowe. The average merit of the articles is good, and the variety sufficient to meet all tastes. The Editorial Department, in its various branches, is well sustained, and the initial number gives promise of popularity and permanence. It is published at $4 a year, at 135 Washington st., Boston and 459 Broome st., New York.

"EVERY SATURDAY" has become an illustrated paper, and been considerably enlarged. Its new attractions, added to its substantial merits, can hardly fail to secure a liberal share of patronage. The terms are $5 a year, or $4 in connexion with any other periodical published by Field, Osgood & Co., 124 Tremont st., Boston. The illustrations in the number of January 1, are of a high order of excellence, and the literary selections choice.

HEAVY VERDICT.—The jury in the case of Allan Kay vs. the Penn's R. R. Co., rendered the following verdict at Williamsport recently: "We find the defendants guilty of gross negligence, and award plaintiff $8,000 damages." This was a case where a child had both arms cut off on one of the branch roads leading from the main road to the lumber mills in Williamsport, in the summer of 1864. The defendants have moved for a new trial.

When the day of life is fled;
Then in heaven we hope to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed.

WALKER.—On the 17th Dec., Rev. Joseph Walker, of New Concord, Ohio, formerly of Adams co., aged about 42 years.

BOYS.—Mothers will do their children a great injustice by not clothing them in Oak Hall garments. The boys like to go to Oak Hall; it does them good; gives them an idea of business, and shows them what can be done by a "boy from the country," as Mr. Wanamaker once was. But the great point is, that the best Boy's Clothing can be had there, and at the lowest prices. Bring the boys to Oak Hall, and both they and their parents will be sure to find satisfaction. 1t

Under-clothes Supporter

Is the most perfect article of the kind ever offered to the public; made prettily, fits nicely, giving ease and comfort and is just what every Mrs. wants. Mothers interested in the comfort and health of their daughters should examine its merits. For sale by JOHN L. SCHICK, Gettysburg, Pa.

Manufactured by D. B. SAUNDERS & CO., 96 Summer st., Boston, Mass.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA" SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S Yacht Club SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the choicest leaf grown; it is anti nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Meerschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourselves it is all it claims to be, "THE FINEST OF ALL."

LORILLARD'S CENTURY CHEWING TOBACCO. This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS have now been in general use in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

Circular of prices mailed on application.

BEST CABINET ORGANS

AT LOWEST PRICES.

That the MASON & HAMLIN CABINET and METROPOLITAN ORGANS are the BEST IN THE WORLD is proved by the almost unanimous opinion of professional musicians, by the award to them of SEVENTY-FIVE GOLD and SILVER MEDALS or other highest premiums, at principal industrial competitions within a few years, including the MEDAL at the PARIS EXPOSITION, and by a sale very much greater than that of any similar instruments. This Company manufacture ONLY FIRST-CLASS INSTRUMENTS, and will not make "cheap organs" at any price, or suffer an inferior instrument to bear their name.—Having greatly increased their facilities for manufacture, by the introduction of new machinery and otherwise, they are now making BETTER ORGANS than EVER BEFORE, at increased economy in cost, which, in accordance with their fixed policy of selling always at least remunerative profit, they are now offering at PRICES OF INFERIOR WORK. FOUR OCTAVE ORGANS, Plain Walnut Case, $50. FIVE OCTAVE ORGANS, Double Reed, Solid Walnut Case, carved and paneled, with FIVE STOPS (Viola, Diapason, Melodia, Flute, Tremulant) $125. GUARANTEED.	Every garment sold is accompanied with a legal guarantee, holding us responsible for the correctness of all the representations made.
LOWEST PRICED.	It is conceded that our large business and many other advantages enable us to sell lower than any other house. We invite a fair comparison of prices.

HOW TO BLANKET HORSES.—But few persons, comparatively, understand how to apply a blanket to a horse to prevent him from contracting a cold. We frequently see the blanket folded double and across the rump and part of the animal's back, leaving those parts of the body which need protection entirely exposed to the cold.

Those parts of the body of a horse which surround the lungs require the benefit of a blanket in preference to its flanks and rump. When we are exposed to a current of cold air, to guard against any injury from contracting cold, we shield our shoulders, neck, chest, and back. If these parts be protected the lower part of the body will endure a degree of cold far more intense, without injury to the body, than if the lungs were not kept warm with suitable covering. The same thing holds good in the protection of horses. The blanket should cover the neck, withers and shoulders, and be brought around the breast and buttoned or buckled together as closely as a man buttons his overcoat when about to face a driving storm.

Let the lungs of a horse be well protected with a heavy blanket, and he will seldom contract a cold, even if the hindermost parts of his body are not covered at all. Many of our best teamsters protect the breasts of their horses by a piece of cloth, about two feet square, hanging down from the lower end of the collar. This is an excellent practice in cold weather, as the most important part of the animal is constantly sheltered from the cold wind, especially when traveling toward a strong current. The forward end of horse blankets should be fitted as closely around the breast of a horse as our garments fit our bodies. Most horses take cold as readily as men, if not blanketed while standing after exercising sufficiently to prodoce perspiration. So long as the horse is kept in motion, there is little danger of his suffering from cold; but allow him to stand for a few minutes, without a blanket to protect his shoulders and lungs, and he will take cold sooner than men.

AMONG the various modes of fattening fowls which are from time to time presented to the public, none is more highly commended than the following, which is the method largely practiced in England, and, it is said, always with great economy and perfect success. In this method the custom is to put the fowls into coops as usual, but where they can get no gravel. Keep corn in their feed boxes all the time, and also give them corn meal dough, well cooked, once a day. For drink give them fresh skimmed milk, with a sprinkling of charcoal well pulverized in it. Fed in this way it is said they will fatten nicely in from ten to twelve days. If kept beyond that time, it is customary to furnish them with gravel to prevent them from falling away. One extensive fowl breeder states that he has tried this method for years, and has never known it to fail. In this method, as in all others, it is, of course, necessary that the fowls should occupy coops protected from the cold, and kept perfetly clean and dry.

DON'T empty the refuse brine from the pork barrel on young trees, because you happen to read that salt is good for them.

Salt is good especially for plum and peach trees; but like a sharp edged tool it should be handled carefully.

TO FRY PORK.—Never allow it to boil to freshen, but soak in warm milk and water, or water alone; roll in flour; put a little drippings from meat in a pan and cook quickly to a light brown, and you will never wish it cooked in the old way.

THE WORLD,

DODGES' OHIO AND BUCKEYE

Reapers and Mowers.

A careful examination of these machines will commence any one of their superior merits over all others, in strength, durability, ease of draft, and reliability for work, on all kinds of ground, and in every variety of grass and grain. Confident of this we invite those in want of a good machine to examine for themselves before purchasing elsewhere:

These machines can be sold as Naked Mowers—REAPERS as Hand Rake, Self-Rake, or Dropper.—Two different sizes: No. 1 Machine, with two cutter Bars and three Knives, cutting five and a half feet in grain and four feet eight inches in grass; No. 2, cutting four feet six inches.

We have that confidence in these machines that we are willing to let those wanting a machine test them with any other they may wish, and keep the one that gives most satisfaction. DODGES' AUTOMATON SELF-RAKE has given such general satisfaction that we consider it the best Self-Rake out, and is attached to no other machine except the Dodge Machine, the Ohio and Buckeye patent.

For the benefit of those wanting machines we would refer them to a few of those to whom we have sold the last season, viz:

John Deardorff, Sen.,	Henry Culp,
Ephraim Lady,	Henry King,
George Lady,	Elisha Penrose,
Jonathan Wisler,	David Stewart
James Mickley,	W. Ross White,
Daniel Settle,	J. J. Kerr,
John Bender,	Andrew Weikert,
John Eckert,	Wm. Bigham,
Wm. Funt,	John Guinn,
Cornelius Lott,	John N. Hoffman,
Wm. Gulden,	John N. Boyer,
Wm. Ross.

Also, WIRE-TOOTH HAY RAKES, including the celebrated Brandt Rake, and Self-discharging Rakes. Also, PLOUGHS, FANNING MILLS, AND FARM IMPLEMENTS GENERALLY.

Persons wishing to examine machines will find them at the warehouse of JOSEPH WIBLE & SONS, Gettysburg, Pa., or at the residence of the subscriber, 2 miles from Gettysburg, on the Harrisburg road. Persons wanting Circulars will address the subscriber, Gettysburg, Pa.

WM. WIBLE, Agent.

STILL AHEAD!

HOFFHEINS'

REAPER & MOWER,

One of the Greatest Machines of the Age,

IS superior to any other Machine now in use, and will excel any that will ever be introduced, having been thoroughly tried and given general satisfaction. I would now inform all those who intend purchasing Machines to call and examine for themselves. This Machine is noted particularly to excel all other machines in strength, durability, ease of draft, and reliability of work, in all kinds of grass and grain. It cuts lodged grain admirably, which is a great item in Machines to a farmer. It can be used as a hand rake or as a self-raker. It cuts 5 feet 2 inches in grain, and 4 feet 10 inches in grass; has a steel cutter bar, with wrought iron guards; it can be used as a Single Mower as well as a Combined Machine.

A full trial of the Machine can be had.

Also, SHIREMAN'S SELF-DISCHARGING HORSE RAKE and the great and well-known BRANT RAKE, the best rakes ever introduced. We would also call your attention to the IRON DOUBLE SHOVEL PLOUGH, wrought iron frame, very light and strong, steel shovels, easily adjusted to run shallow or deep, and is neatly and tastefully made.

ALSO, THE KEELER AND EXCELSIOR FANNING MILL, the old "amborough Fan improved, for many years a great favorite among the farmers of Pennsylvania. It is large and strong, has two cockle screens, and warranted to work perfectly.

Also all kinds of FARMING IMPLEMENTS always on hand.

Any person wishing to examine these machines can see them at the Battle-field Hotel or at my residence, 3 miles from Gettysburg, between the Taneytown road and the Baltimore pike.

FORTY THOUSAND

CASES OF GOODS

were shipped from our house in One Year, to families clubs, and merchants, in every part of the country, from Maine to California, amounting in value to over

ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

Our facilities for transacting this immense business are better than ever before. We have agents in all the principal cities to purchase goods from the Manufacturers, Importers, and others, for CASH, and often at an immense sacrifice from the original cost of production.

Our stock consists, in part, of the following goods:—

SHAWLS, BLANKETS, QUILTS, COTTONS, GINGHAMS, DRESS GOODS, TABLE LINEN, TOWELS, HOSIERY, GLOVES, SKIRTS, CORSETS, &c., &c.

SILVER-PLATED WARE, SPOONS PLATED ON NICKEL SILVER, DESERT FORKS, FIVE-BOTTLE PLATED CASTORS, BRITANNIA WARE, GLASS WARE, TABLE and POCKET CUTLERY, in great variety.

ELEGANT FRENCH AND GERMAN FANCY GOODS, BEAUTIFUL PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS, the newest and choicest styles in Morocco and Velvet Bindings.

MOROCCO TRAVELLING BAGS, HANDKERCHIEF AND GLOVE BOXES, &c.

GOLD AND PLATED JEWELRY, OF THE NEWEST STYLES.

We have also made arrangements with some of the leading Publishing Houses, that will enable us to sell the standard and latest works of popular authors at about one-half the regular price:—such as BYRON, MOORE, BURNS, MILTON, and TENNYSON'S WORKS, in full Gilt and Cloth Bindings,—and hundreds of others.

These and everything else for

ONE DOLLAR FOR EACH ARTICLE.

We do not offer a single article of merchandise, that can be sold by regular dealers at our price. We do not ask you to buy goods from us unless we can sell them cheaper than you can obtain them in any other way,—while the greater part of our goods are sold at about

One-Half the Regular Rates.

We want good reliable agents in every part of the Country. By employing your spare time to form clubs and sending us orders, you can obtain the most liberal commissions, either in CASH or MERCHANDISE, and all goods sent by us will be as represented, and we guarantee satisfaction to every one dealing with our house.

As the Holidays are coming, we are making special arrangements to supply every one who reads our advertisement, with the most handsome and useful Holiday presents that can be thought of or wished for, and to enable them to procure them cheaply and expeditiously, we will give to any one who will become our Agent, ONE HUNDRED FREE TICKETS, enumerating some of the many different articles from which you can make your selection of Holiday presents.

For returning full clubs from these Free Tickets, accompanied by the cash, we will give the same extra premiums that we now give, just the same as if you had paid 10 cents for each one of your Tickets. We wish you to understand that not any other firm in the business can compete with us in any way whatever.

As this free ticket is only good for the Holidays you must send in your orders before the 20th of January, 1870.

"In every order amounting to over $50, accompanied by the cash, the Agent may retain $2.00, and in every order of over $100, $3.00 may be retained to
